U. S. FOREST SERVICE

NORTH PACIFIC DISTRICT

PORTLAND

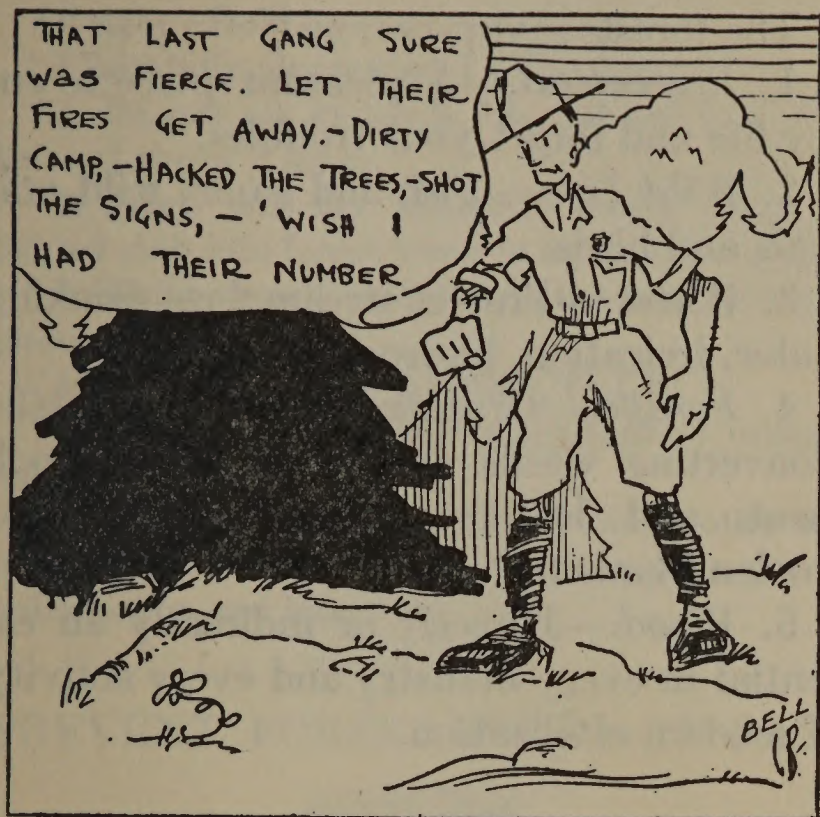

OREGON

You are welcome to the National Forests. The ranger has planned for your comfort and enjoyment.

Do you appreciate the courtesy? How about that camp fire—those tin cans—that rubbish?

Does the ranger say: "Come again, old man?" or does he say:

→ “Look at that dude’s camp fire—that dirty camp ground!”?

The ranger has many important duties. He’s a Government officer, responsible for may be 200,000 or more acres of valuable timberland. He can’t be a personal janitor for your camp rubbish, nor yet a flunkey for your camp fire. SOMEBODY has to do it!

PLAY FAIR—DO YOUR SHARE

Again—it's your forest—you own a share in it. How do you care for your home? Same thing goes here.

Besides, there's the other fellow. He wants a green forest to play in, a clean spot to pitch his tent on, a pure stream to drink from, same as you do.

THINK IT OVER

All right—Hold up your right hand!

“I faithfully pledge that I will—

“1. Be sure my match is out. Break it in two before I throw it away.

“2. Pinch out my tobacco. Never throw a lighted stub into forest brush or twigs.

“3. Build a small camp fire, in the open, in a safe place.

“4. PUT IT OUT—ABSOLUTELY!

“5. Leave a clean camp—a gentleman's camp—not a city dump.

“6. Put out any fire I find or else notify the ranger if it's too big. I recognize the necessity of quick action and lots of it.”

PREVENT FOREST FIRES—IT PAYS

The forests give:

1. Recreation.—A pleasant place to enjoy life and forget your troubles.

2. Wild Life.—Fish and game, wild animals and birds.

3. Water.—Protect stream flow, drinking water, irrigation, hydroelectric power.

4. Forage.—Grazing of sheep and cattle. Converting weeds and grasses into wool, meat, and leather, T-bone steaks, and woolen blankets.

5. Wood.—Directly or indirectly an essential in every industry and every activity of modern civilization.
